Why to Get Maps

Good maps are in general extraordinarily easy to obtain. Even the small-scale maps distributed by gas stations are generally pretty good.

Sectional maps, particularly those of good publications, are inexpensive in the extreme; furthermore, most suppliers will furnish upon request the detailed lists of exactly what they have available.

Maps of three portions of the United States from the U. S. Geological Survey may be secured upon, D.C. For maps of areas west of the Missouri Federal Census, Denver, Colorado.

For maps of national forest areas, write the Forest Service, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. Maps of the Great Lakes and Lake Survey, Federal Building, Detroit, Michigan.

Canadian maps may be obtained from the U. S. and public offices located in the various provinces in Canada, and from the Map Distribution Office, Department of Mines and Technical Surveys, which is also located in Ottawa, Ontario.

For governmental maps of Mexico, write: D. F. Mexico. Two private sources for foreign maps are: The National Geographical Society, 1201 M Street, Washington, D.C., and the International Map Company, 30 West 42nd Street, New York, N.Y.

Why to Consult Maps and Publications

Consult maps are by far the most valuable for wilderness use, indicating as they do valleys, canyons, mountains, and other such geographical features in terms of elevations. Consulting such maps in strange country can save one an exhausting amount of unnecessary climbing, descending, and then scaling again. "Cutting by compass in a straight line, even when possible, is often not advisable. In mountainous or rugged country, we soon learn that on more is covered by circling several miles along an open ridge instead of seeking a small fraction of the distance straight across a deep ravine to the one destination.

Having a professional and highly experienced team of specialists, capable of handling all the project steps.
